1. Overview

Protecting our clients' privacy is very important to us. To ensure our compliance with the Privacy Act and as part of our commitment to ensuring the safety of your private and confidential information, we have established and implemented this Policy.

1.1 Introduction

The Privacy Act requires that we handle your personal information in accordance with a set of national principles, known as the Australian Privacy Principles (APPs), which regulate the collection, use, correction, disclosure, and transfer of personal information about individuals by organisations like us in the private sector.

1.2 Policy statement

The Policy explains our policies and practices with respect to the collection, use and management of your personal information and our approach to the APPs.

1.3 Scope and application

This Policy applies to Rhombus Advisory Pty Ltd and its subsidiaries, RI Advice Group Pty Ltd and Consultum Financial Advisers Pty Ltd (collectively referred to as Rhombus Advisory).

References to Rhombus Advisory are taken to also be a reference to its subsidiaries.

This Policy applies to Rhombus Advisory's business activities carried on in Australia. In the event of any inconsistencies between the requirements of this Policy and Rhombus Advisory's statutory duties under Australian law, the latter shall prevail.

Definitions used in this Policy are set out in section 6.

2. General obligations

2.1 Collection

2.1.1 What information do we collect?

We will collect and hold your personal information for the purposes of:

- providing advice, and services to you
- managing and administering your products and services
- verifying your identity
- letting you know about our other services.

The type of information collected from you includes information that is necessary to provide advice or other services to you. We may ask you to provide personal information such as your:

- name
- e-mail address
- residential and/or postal address
- date of birth
- telephone number
- occupation
- bank account details
- financial details including your income, assets, and liabilities.
- employer
- tax file number (TFN)
- preferences and interests.

We may also collect personal information from you regarding your family situation, your partner, dependants, beneficiaries, and children, if it is considered necessary to provide you services, such as financial planning advice where members of your family may become beneficiaries to your life insurance policy or superannuation fund. If you provide us with personal information about another person, we expect and assume that you have that person's permission to provide this information to us and that you have made them aware that their personal information will be handled in accordance with this Policy.

This information is primarily collected from forms you have completed, your use of our online facilities, or through ongoing communications with you or persons you authorise to communicate with us on your behalf. We may also ask for your consent to collect information about you from third parties where it is necessary to provide you with certain services, for example, we may ask for your consent to collect income information from your employer where you apply for an income protection insurance policy.

We will inform you of any legal requirements for us to request information about you and the consequences of not providing that information. For example, in addition to the personal information we will obtain from you, we may require documents evidencing your identity for certain services we provide and to verify your identity for Know Your Customer (KYC) purposes. Such evidence may include certified copies of one or more of your driver's licence, passport, or birth certificate. If you do not provide identity documentation, we may not be able to provide services to you.

We may also solicit personal information about you from third parties where you have authorised a third party to provide that information to us, or where we are obliged or authorised by law to obtain such information. Third parties that we may need to collect information from include, product issuers, your employer, accountant, or solicitor.

To identify opportunities to improve our services and to enhance your customer experience with us, we may also collect data from third parties. Prior to engaging any third party, a thorough due diligence process is undertaken to ensure your personal information is fully protected. This includes ensuring that sufficient security measures and relevant confidentiality and contractual arrangements are in place which, at a minimum, require the third party to handle personal information in strict accordance with our requirements under Australian privacy law.

2.1.2 What if you do not give us the information we request?

You are not obligated to give us the information that we request. However, if you do not give us the information that we ask for, or the information you give is incomplete or inaccurate, this may:

- prevent or delay the provision of certain services to you.
- preclude us from providing you financial advice.
- prevent us from contacting you about your products or services.
- cause taxation implications.

For example, we are required to ask for your tax file number (TFN) if we are helping you become a member of a new superannuation product. If you choose to not give us your TFN, you may be subject to higher tax charges on your superannuation.

2.2 Use of information

2.2.1 How do we use the information that we collect?

We use your personal information for the purpose for which it has been obtained, and for related purposes. For example, we collect your personal information so that we can:

- provide financial advice to you.
- establish and manage your investments and accounts, including your superannuation.
- implement your investment instructions.
- establish and assist you with insurance protection.
- report on the investment performance of your account
- address any queries or concerns you may have.
- comply with our legal and regulatory obligations.
- keep you up to date on other services that may be of interest to you.
- improve the operation of our business and enhance the delivery of our services.

2.3 Disclosure

2.3.1 Who do we give your information to?

To providing the services you have requested (or an authorised related purpose), we may provide your information to external parties. Where personal information is disclosed, we have strict controls in place to ensure information is held, used, and disclosed in accordance with the APPs.

The types of external organisations to which we may disclose your personal information include:

- organisations involved in providing, managing, or administering our products or services such as actuaries, custodians, external dispute resolution services, insurers, investment managers, product issuers, alliance partners or mail houses.
- other advisers appointed by you.
- medical practitioners and other relevant professionals, where you have applied for insurance cover or made a claim.
- your personal representative, or other persons who may be authorised to deal with us on your behalf.
- financial institutions that hold accounts for you
- professional advisers appointed by us.
- third party services, to enable us to deliver better products and services to you.
- businesses that have referred you to us.

Like other financial services companies, there are situations where we may also disclose your personal information where it is:

- required by law (such as to the Australian Taxation Office or pursuant to a court order)
- authorised by law (such as where we are obliged to disclose information in the public interest or to protect our interests)
- necessary to discharge obligations (such as for enforcement activities of regulatory bodies or to foreign governments for the purposes of foreign taxation)
- required to assist in law enforcement (such as to a police force).

We may also disclose your information if you give your consent.

2.3.2 Will my information be disclosed overseas?

It is generally unlikely that we will disclose your personal information overseas. However, we may use third-party service providers or offshore outsourcing services who store data or operate outside Australia to provide services to you. Depending on the circumstances, the relevant countries will vary such that it is not practicable to list them here. Where we disclose your personal information overseas, we will take steps to ensure there are appropriate privacy, data handling and security arrangements in place to protect your information.

Any overseas disclosure does not affect our commitment to safeguarding your personal information and we will take reasonable steps to ensure any overseas recipient complies with the APPs.

2.4 Access and correction of information

2.4.1 Can I access my information and what if it is incorrect?

You may request access to the personal information we hold about you. We may charge a reasonable fee to cover our costs.

There may be circumstances where we are unable to give you access to the information that you have requested. If this is the case, we will inform you and explain the reasons why.

We will take reasonable steps to ensure that the personal information we collect, hold, use or disclose is accurate, complete, up to date, relevant and not misleading.

You have a right to ask us to correct any information we hold about you if you believe it is inaccurate, incomplete, out of date, irrelevant or is misleading. If we do not agree with the corrections, you have supplied and refuse to correct the personal information, we will give you a written notice to that effect.

If you wish to access or correct your personal information, you may contact us through our offices or by writing to the Privacy Officer, whose contact details are set out in section 4.

2.5 Protection of personal and sensitive information that we hold.

2.5.1 How do we protect the security of your information?

We have security systems, practices, and procedures in place to safeguard your privacy. We may use cloud storage or third-party servers to store the personal information we hold about you.

2.5.2 Risks of using the internet

You should note that there are inherent security risks in transmitting information through the internet. You should assess these potential risks when deciding whether to use our online services. If you do not wish to transmit information through our website, please contact us to see if there are other ways in which you can provide this information to us.

2.5.3 Cookies

A "cookie" is a small text file that may be placed on a computer by a web server. Our websites may use cookies, Google Analytics and/or other analytics tools which may enable us to identify you, your browser or other information about you while you are using our site. These cookies may be permanently stored on a computer or are temporary session cookies. They are used for a variety of purposes, including security and personalisation of services. They are frequently used on websites, and you can choose if, and how, a cookie will be accepted by configuring your preferences and options in your browser.

All browsers allow you to be notified when you receive a cookie, and you may elect to either accept it or not. If you wish not to accept a cookie, this may impact the effectiveness of the website. Your internet service provider or other IT service provider should be able to assist you with setting your preferences.

2.6 Retention of your personal information

We are required by law to retain certain records of information for varying lengths of time and, in certain circumstances, permanently. Where your personal information is not required to be retained under law and is no longer required for the purpose for which it was collected, we will take reasonable steps to irrevocably destroy or de-identify it.

3. European Union General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)

If you reside in a country that is a member of the European Economic Area (the EU and Norway, Lichtenstein, and Iceland), in addition to the protection you receive under the Privacy Act, you may be entitled to other protections provided by the GDPR, including, in certain circumstances, the right to:

- have your personal information erased.
- access your personal information in an electronic and portable format.
- restrict or object to the processing of your personal information.

4. Roles and Responsibilities

The Rhombus Advisory Board is responsible for overseeing the Policy.

The Privacy Officer is responsible for updating this Policy and for managing the business impacts of privacy laws across Rhombus Advisory.

4.1 Contacting the Privacy Officer

You can contact the Privacy Officer by:

1. Mail
